Look down from Heaven, Thy Dwelling Place, and hear the prayer of the stranger who prays toward this place (God's Temple).

“ On the sports networks they are remembering the "Immaculate Reception" by Franco Harris forty years ago. Dad took me to that game along with a business partner. I remember the excitement after the touchdown even though we didn't actually see it.

“ I ask God to help me with the grief I feel by the loss of my Dad. Although he was living in New Jersey since October, 2010 I still felt a connection with him and what he suffered in the transition to a way of life that depended totally on others. My Dad lived what he read in the Bible and what he prayed each and every day. He also told me that he was happy that I lived at home with him, particularly after my Mom's death in 2004. As I watched Dad become more frail and accident prone I remember each night carefully listening for any sound from his room that needed my immediate attention. I wanted to be there for him in some small way. After we were separated from each other I called him on the phone and read his favorite Bible passages to him. His spirits seemed to pick up when I did that. It taught me that God's Spirit could let us feel connected across the miles and be unhindered by physical barriers. I pray that the prayers of my Dad will be answered concerning the special needs of his second daughter. That God would remember me, and not forget me during this very difficult time of loss and grief.

“ My dad sang a beautiful hymn when my nephew, Franz and his wife and son visited us. My nephew videotaped my dad singing. Little did I know it would be the last time he would use his gift for singing here on earth. I have posted the video on Facebook for those who want to remember and experience the message of God's love for us.

“Grandpa loved to read. About 8 years ago he encouraged me to read "Abide in Christ" by Andrew Murray. He said this was a book that was life changing and that is why he read it over and over again. I bought the book and read it. I would call Grandpa and we would discuss the rich insight found in this book. Sometimes we would talk about each chapter.

Grandpa always pointed me towards faith in Jesus. He encouraged me to trust in Christ alone for salvation. He loved the Word of God and often memorized large portions of Scripture.

I am thankful for Grandpa and his life. He leaves a legacy of faith and that is better than any material thing in this world. He is with Jesus now and I know I will see him again.

Love you Grandpa.

“ I remember when I was going through really rough times (Note; I was 20 years old and in prison at the time) and I used to call my grandfather (Barton Weaver). He used to tell me that he was praying for me and that I needed to trust in the Lord and that He would be there for me and that only the Lord could change my situation and turn it all around. These words that he gave me really helped me to make it through these really rough times. I just like everyone else am a sinner saved by the grace of God and am not perfect but, thanks be to God for the love that he showed to me and the words of encouragement. I know that my Grandfather is in heaven now and for this I am thankful that he is without pain and singing as he once loved to do. I love you Grandpa!

*Love,
Franz Szawronski*
