Memories of Gordon are like his smile - never ending. Good Friend and great neighbor. Thanks for taking the time to listen.

I loved Gordon's puns! Not only did he collect them, but he created them, including this one on the occasion of a Road Scholar farewell dinner...

A traveler walks up to an airline counter with a dead opossum under one arm and a dead armadillo under the other. The agent sternly informs him, "Sir, you are only allowed one carrion."

Peggy and Gordon encouraged me to take my first overseas trip without my husband, two years after his death, as part of a group tour with them to Costa Rica. I am forever grateful to them for helping me take this healing step. I will always remember Gordon as one of the good guys.
