“ John was always a pleasure to be around. I remember back in the days when we had family parties or reunions and I would be standing talking with someone and all of the sudden feel an arm come around my waist. I would turn my head and John would be standing next to me with a big smile on his face. He would then say "Hi hon how are you" He was always kind and I can never remember being in his presence and him not having a smile on his face. My mom always referred to him as being "happy go lucky" and enjoyed him. As life went on I was able to observe him with his beautiful children all now grown. The main thing that always caught my attention was how no matter what was going on around him if one of his children were talking to him they had his full attention. He listened, he guided and was a great role model as a father as anyone can see looking at his successful children now. I know he will be greatly missed by all who knew him especially his family and lovely wife Susan. With my deepest sympathy Carol Ann
