“ It was my wife’s birthday. She had asked for fireworks. I had completely dropped the ball, I had forgotten to get them. I knew Martin was skilled with fireworks, so I went by to ask him if he could let me know where I could buy some. He immediately had me come in and began to get me some of his own stash. When I tried to pay him for it, he refused. And my wife thoroughly enjoyed an amazing show. Since that time, I have enjoyed getting to know Martin better. He was a kind and good man. My prayers are with all of you at this time.
